Rural Holland Has Varied Ideas On Hohenzollern

AMERONGEN, December 30—(Associated Press Correspondence)—Opinion as to what should be done with William Hohenzollern, formerly German emperor, is very much divided in Holland, even in the extreme south eastern corner of the province of Utrecht, where is situated the castle of Amerongen, Hohenzollern's temporary abode. Here the rural population contentedly lives under the rule of the gentry who have owned the land around for generations. An opportunity to observe the division of sentiment was afforded the Associated Press correspondent when he sought lodgings for the night in a small village hotel. Seated about the office were half a dozen villagers. After the stranger had been eyed awhile with the furtive suspicion of the rustic towards the townsman, talk drifted back to its former channel—Hohenzollern. "What do people hereabouts think of him?" the correspondent asked.

"Think of him? He should be clapped in jail, and hanged", rapped out a sharp faced man fiercely. "That's what I think of him."

"Nay, neighbor", expostulated a fat complacent man, who looked like a prosperous cattle dealer oozing with war profits, "he don't deserve all that, surely."

"What?" ejaculated the first man. "A fellow who had millions of people killed in them battles..."

"What I say is" broke in the cattleman, "he always gave thanks to the Almighty. He always praised God. You can see it in the papers. And that's a fit and proper thing to do. There are many worse than he, and it wasn't his fault alone that all them people were killed. What do you say landlord?"

"Aye, that may be true," said the landlord diplomatically. "He had his faults, I dare say. But I do say 'tis a sad come-down for a gentleman in his position." And he shook his gray head.

"Pshaw!" said the sharp-faced man. "You bet he lacks for nothing. He lives on the fat of the land. He gets all he wants, and more. Current bread he gets every day, and jam and tea. Folks like that never lack for nothing, eh?"

The village carpenter thus addressed cast a disapproving look over the assembly. "I don't hold with royalty and such," he growled slowly through his teeth, which gripped his pipe like a vise. "There's old Paul Kruger. I never could abide him. When he came to Utrecht I was working at the hotel where he was staying. And twice every day, every day, he had hot pudding! Now I call that sinful; it's scandalous. It oughtn't be allowed."

WOMEN MAY CONTINUE WAR JOBS IN NEVADA

RENO, Nev., January 31—(By Associated Press) The "war time" woman promises to maintain her place in Nevada despite the fact that the end of hostilities is in sight. In Reno restaurant and cafes were forced by necessity to employ young women to wait on tables and lunch counters and managers have announced that many of them will be retained.

In the Southern Pacific Company's shops at Sparks about fifty women have been employed since the first draft. These women will be retained in case they wish to stay under changed conditions, company officials state. They indicate that "changed conditions" means that the wages of the women will be cut to such an extent that they probably will seek lighter and more suitable work.

During the preceding summer women and girls were employed quite freely on farms all over the state. It was a common sight to see a majority of the harvest hands in the large fields composed of women. Women operated gang plows and harvesters, and did most of the work in putting in crops and cutting hay and grain. With the return of the harvest season next year it is likely, however, that few women will be seen in the various vocations attached to ranching.

Women undoubtedly will be retained in capacities as clerks by many of the larger corporations, more particularly the railroad and express companies.

Wages paid to women who performed the work of men were practically the same as given the men whom they superseded.
